Inspiration:

The act of being seated, resting, ceasing to stand is so innate and natural, we often forget to pause and admire this moment. We are always in a continuum of chores. Eat, sleep, work, repeat is the wired mechanism that we are into. This loop of our wired routines needs to be broken to pause and reflect.

Our generation is also focused on achieving instant gratification. The design of the bench reflects that pause and that break which is necessary. The visual aesthetic of the bench, which is also consciously discontinued in design, is integrated into the material usage.
